| Disposition: Medical parole denied. BOPP finds to a reasonable degree of medical certainty that offender's medical condition (renal cancer with recurrence in lymph nodes and liver) is not likely to cause death within 6 months. BOPP further finds that while the medical condition requires significant care and attention, the offender is receiving appropriate medical care and attention at present. Accordingly, the statutory requirements for a medical parole have not been satisfied. The offender will appear for regular parole consideration in December 2026.  |                       |  |                                |                |
